It's not lost on a good many people (comments) the timing of your re-offering for mayor and other elected officials showing up here last night. Pretty transparent really, and quite callous in my opinion.

So many comments about 'oh my God I never understood, I saw the pictures but until you're here seeing it, this is crazy, the smell, unbelievable...this is the first time anyone's shown up to help, you're usually alone dealing with this...'

Why do you think Councillor Ivey has been relentlessly advocating for something tangible, significant and immediate to be done, still, 3 years on? Why? Because he's been here for every one of these storm systems, before, during, after... he has understood the significance of the damage, emotional trauma we experience every time a red-triangle warning appears/ occurs, and, FULLY ACCEPTS THE MUNICIPALITIES LEGAL RESPONSIBILITY. Why now, in an election year, did others decide to show up to experience our suffering first hand?

And here's the thing, this could happen again tomorrow, or next week, the under-sized system backed up 3 times this week alone... it could happen 3 more times this month, or 5 - it's not IF, but WHEN! I do not think the collective capacity exists to comprehend that!!

And yet you all sit around proud as peacocks bragging about growth and approving more and more building projects for Windsor. Blindly continuing to shove down the throat of an undersized storm-system, more water, more sewer (Jenny mentioned her and Bob saw a condom float by while standing at the end of our driveway). Oh, and the near 3 million dollars for Nesbitt Street, before Stannus, for its flooding?!?!

With all do respect, which admittedly is minimal at this point, if you don't bring us a real, relevant and timely solution, to alleviate this suffering, then stfu!!

I have zero power, that is for sure, that said, I will do what I can to say or see that you are removed from that chair; and others in that office who long ago should have conceded to have stayed in their own lane; a once Rec Director, Forestry Tech and current Salesman (all worthwhile careers in their own right).

If you or anyone else reading this is musing over how ungrateful I sound, it's time to learn the art of 'putting yourself in someone else's shoes'. Or, you can chalk it up to having to stay up all night to feed a gas pump to keep water from overwhelming your basement. Honestly, I don't care how you take it.

I am, however, overwhelmingly grateful to the many citizens who got the word out, and those who found their way here, who just showed up out of the goodness of their heart and offered to do whatever they could; these demonstrated true community, what it means to be neighborly and how to go about doing the right thing, to simply help.

hey, if you drive by now you'll see how our properties get to smell like sewer...
if you drive fast enough maybe you can make one of those gigantic waves too!!
